On 16 February 1951, a total of about 600 men were seen marching from the Neue Kaserne to the Alte Kaserne in Burg (M 53/Y 61), led by a military band of about 30 pieces. The troops were organized into five units of about 120 men each. One field-grade officer and three to six company-grade officers were observed with each unit. A short time later two Horch sedans [REDACTED] series arrived from the direction of the town. The troops were seen returning in the afternoon, the two sedans having left towards the town a short time before. [REDACTED]
